NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on Thursday, May 9, 2019, at 2:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as it may be heard, before the Honorable Haywood S. Gilliam, Jr. in Courtroom 2 of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California, 1301 Clay Street, Oakland, CA 94612, Plaintiff States will and do hereby move the Court under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65 to enter a preliminary injunction prohibiting Defendants from diverting federal funds and resources for the construction of a border wall. Plaintiff States move to enjoin Defendants' use of 31 U.S.C. § 9705 to divert monies from the Treasury Forfeiture Fund for border wall construction. Plaintiff State of New Mexico further moves to enjoin Defendants' use of the transfer authority under § 8005 of the FY 2019 Department of Defense Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 115-245, and 10 U.S.C. § 284 to divert funding and resources for construction of a wall on the southern border of New Mexico. Finally, Plaintiff States move to enjoin Defendants from taking any further action related to their border wall proposal unless and until Defendants comply with the National Environmental Policy Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 4321-4370m-12. This motion is based on the Notice of Motion and Motion, the Memorandum of Points and Authorities, the accompanying declarations and Request for Judicial Notice, as well as the papers, evidence and records on file, and any other written or oral evidence or argument as may be presented.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff States file this motion to: (1) preserve their stake in federal law enforcement funds; and (2) protect environmental and natural resources, both of which are imminently threatened by Defendants' unlawful and unconstitutional actions to divert over one billion federal dollars in fulfillment of President Trump's directive to construct a wall on the border between the United States and Mexico. The fulcrum of this action is Defendants' disregard of the will of Congress and violation of fundamental separation of powers principles enshrined in the United States Constitution. For the first two years of President Trump's presidency, Congress repeatedly

1 rejected the president's proposals to fund a border wall.¹ Nonetheless, the president insisted that 2 Congress fund a border wall, leading to a record 35-day partial government shutdown exclusively 3 over border wall funding. After the government re-opened, on February 15, 2019, Congress 4 enacted, and the president signed into law, a $1.375 billion appropriation—subject to 5 particularized conditions—for specified pedestrian fencing along a limited stretch of the southern 6 border in the Rio Grande Valley Sector in Texas. Dissatisfied with Congress's appropriation, on 7 the same day it was signed into law, the president ordered Defendant agencies to divert $6.7 8 billion of other federal funds appropriated for other purposes toward construction of a border wall 9 in areas not authorized by Congress and not subject to the carefully prescribed limitations placed 10 by Congress on its appropriation for fencing at the border.

11 Defendants have now taken concrete steps in furtherance of President Trump's 12 unconstitutional directive, resulting in the attempted diversions of $1.6 billion of federal funds.
13 The Department of the Treasury (Treasury) announced that it has diverted or will soon be 14 diverting $601 million from the Treasury Forfeiture Fund (TFF) to the Department of Homeland 15 Security (DHS) for border wall construction, and Treasury has already made $242 million of this 16 funding available for obligation through construction contracts. In addition, the Department of 17 Defense (DOD) has notified Congress that it is transferring $1 billion in funds appropriated for 18 other purposes to DOD's drug interdiction account for immediate obligation to construct border 19 wall fencing in specified areas of New Mexico and Arizona—border wall fencing that was not 20 approved by Congress.

21 Plaintiff States are likely to succeed on the merits of their claims because Defendants' 22 redirection of funds and resources toward a border wall is unlawful and unconstitutional.
23 Congress unequivocally rejected the president's requested appropriation for a border wall, only 24 for the president to then order the diversion of federal funds from other sources toward the very 25 project that Congress rejected. The U.S. Constitution, however, entrusts the power of the purse to 26 ¹ Although Congress approved funding for some barriers and related infrastructure on the 27 southern border, it has rejected much of the funding requested by President Trump. This motion 28 uses the term "border wall" to refer to any barrier or border-related infrastructure and/or any project relating to a barrier or border-related infrastructure along the southern border, requested by President Trump that Congress has not approved.

1 Congress and denies the president the powers to legislate or appropriate. Defendants' actions 2 amount to a usurpation of Congress's legislative powers in violation of bedrock separation of 3 powers principles embedded in the Constitution, including the Presentment and Appropriations
4 Clauses. Thus, under the circumstances presented here, where Congress has expressly denied 5 additional funding for border wall construction and limited its authorization of construction to 6 specific areas, President Trump's actions, in effect, unilaterally modify Congress's limited 7 appropriation in violation of the Constitution.

8 Defendants also lack statutory authority to proceed with their proposed actions because they 9 cannot satisfy the criteria in any of the statutes on which they rely for the diversions of funds and 10 resources. As just one example, Defendants cannot demonstrate that their transfer of $1 billion 11 from military personnel accounts toward border wall construction is for "unforeseen military 12 requirements," or is for an item for which Congress has not already denied funding, prerequisites 13 set forth in the pertinent appropriations act. Consequently, Defendants have exceeded their 14 statutory authority and acted ultra vires.

15 Defendants' actions additionally violate the Administrative Procedure Act's (APA)
16 prohibition on arbitrary and capricious government action because Defendants failed to provide a 17 sufficiently rational analysis to justify their unprecedented action.

18 Lastly, whether or not use of the funding sources is permissible, Defendants have violated
19 the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) by proceeding with their construction plans 20 without conducting any environmental review.

21 Now that Defendants have directed the diversions of over $1.6 billion in federal funds, they 22 are poised to quickly proceed with constructing a border wall, as the president claims that many 23 contracts are close to being signed and CBP has indicated that it intends to obligate funds soon.
24 Req. for Judicial Notice (RJN) Exs. 1 & 2, ¶ 11. Defendants' actions to divert DOD funds and 25 resources toward the construction of new fencing in environmentally sensitive areas on the border 26 between New Mexico and Mexico pose imminent environmental harm to New Mexico. These 27 environmental injuries are independent of and in addition to the procedural injuries imposed on 28 New Mexico through Defendants' failure to comply with NEPA. Further, if Defendants are permitted to obligate improperly diverted funds, such diversion will jeopardize not only pending equitable share claims from the Plaintiff States, but also the financial viability of the TFF program, which provides key support to law enforcement in those States. For these reasons, and those discussed below, the Court should grant Plaintiff States' motion for preliminary injunction and enjoin Defendants from diverting funding and resources and taking any additional steps toward border wall construction.

BACKGROUND

I. THE DISPUTE BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS OVER FUNDING FOR A BORDER WALL

For the past four years, including his time as a presidential candidate, President Trump advocated for construction of a wall along the southern border of the United States. First Am. Compl. (FAC) ¶¶ 208-219; see also RJN Exs. 3-13. Between 2017 and 2018, Congress considered numerous bills that would have authorized or appropriated billions of dollars toward President Trump's proposed border wall. All of those bills failed. See, e.g., RJN Exs. 14-20.

At the end of 2018, as Congress and the president were negotiating an appropriations bill to fund numerous federal departments for the remainder of the 2019 fiscal year (FY), President Trump renewed his demand for border wall funding. At a December 11, 2018 televised meeting between President Trump and congressional leaders, President Trump asserted he was "proud to shut down the government for border security." RJN Ex. 21. On December 19, 2018, the Senate passed by a voice vote a bill to fund the government through February 8, 2019 that did not include any funding for a border wall. RJN Ex. 22. The following day, and before the House of Representatives voted on the Senate's funding bill, President Trump stated, "I've made my position very clear. Any measure that funds the government must include border security," which he clarified must include funding for a wall. RJN Ex. 23. That same day, the House approved a funding bill appropriating $5.7 billion for "U.S. Customs and Border Protection - Procurement, Construction, and Improvements." RJN Ex. 24, § 141. The Senate never passed the House-approved bill. As a result, on December 22, 2018, a partial government shutdown began, which lasted for a record 35 days.

1 During the shutdown, on January 6, 2019, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB)
 2 requested $5.7 billion from Congress to fund “approximately 234 miles of new physical barrier.”
 3 RJN Ex. 25. Congress did not grant this funding request, and on January 25, 2019, Congress and 4 the president agreed to a three-week continuing resolution to re-open the government without any 5 funding for a wall. H.R.J. Res. 28, 116th Cong. (2019) (enacted). When announcing the 6 agreement, President Trump warned, “If we don’t get a fair deal from Congress, the government 7 will either shutdown on February 15, again, or I will use the powers afforded to me under the 8 laws and the Constitution of the United States to address this emergency.” RJN Ex. 26.

9 After weeks of negotiation, on February 14, 2019, Congress passed the Consolidated 10 Appropriations Act, 2019, Pub. L. No. 116-6, 133 Stat. 13 (2019) (2019 Consolidated 11 Appropriations Act). The Act appropriates $1.375 billion to DHS to construct “primary 12 pedestrian fencing, including levee pedestrian fencing, in the Rio Grande Valley Sector” of the 13 southern border. Id. § 230(a)(1), 133 Stat at 28. This appropriation is the only funding in the 2019 14 Consolidated Appropriation Act that Congress designated for construction of a barrier on the 15 southern border. Congress also specifically constrained how DHS may use the appropriated 16 funds, limiting the appropriation to pedestrian fencing: (i) only in the Rio Grande Valley Sector; 17 and (ii) providing that the funding is “only . . . available for operationally effective designs 18 deployed as of the date of the Consolidated Appropriations Act 2017 (Public Law 115-31), such 19 as currently deployed steel bollard designs, that prioritize agent safety.” Id. § 230(b). The 2019 20 Consolidated Appropriations Act became law on February 15, 2019.

21 II. DEFENDANTS’ ACTIONS TO DIVERT FUNDING AND RESOURCES FROM OTHER SOURCES 22 TO CONSTRUCT A BORDER WALL

23 On the same day that President Trump signed the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act
 24 into law, he proclaimed the existence of a national emergency under the National Emergencies 25 Act that he contends necessitates the construction of a wall across the southern border. 84 Fed.
 26 Reg. 4949 (Feb. 15, 2019) (the Emergency Declaration).² The Emergency Declaration

27 ² By a vote of 245-182 in the House of Representatives and 59-41 in the Senate, Congress
 28 disapproved of the president’s Emergency Declaration. H.R.J. Res. 46, 116th Cong. (2019)

1 acknowledged that DOD has already provided support and resources to DHS for border security 2 pursuant to an April 4, 2018 memorandum. Id.; see also RJN Ex. 27. In addition to issuing the 3 Emergency Declaration, the Trump Administration announced it would redirect federal funds 4 from three specific sources to construct a border wall, over and above the $1.375 billion that 5 Congress had appropriated for limited fencing at the border. RJN Ex. 28 (the Executive Action).
 6 The diversions at issue in this motion do not depend on invocation of the National Emergencies 7 Act in order to take effect.

8 The first funding source at issue is the TFF, from which President Trump directed $601 9 million to be diverted for border wall construction. Id. TFF is “the receipt account for the deposit 10 of non-tax forfeitures made pursuant to laws enforced or administered by [participating] law 11 enforcement bureaus.” RJN Ex. 29 at 1. State and local law enforcement agencies that contribute 12 to seizures resulting in forfeiture may claim an equitable share of the forfeited amounts. Id. at 9; 13 see also 31 U.S.C. § 9705(a)(1)(G). Equitable share claims are made after state and local law 14 enforcement have dedicated resources toward a joint law enforcement action and Plaintiff States 15 have participated in the TFF program since its inception. TFF creates a permanent indefinite 16 “[a]ppropriation” to the Treasury Secretary to make certain unobligated amounts available for 17 “obligation or expenditure in connection with the law enforcement activities of any Federal 18 agency or of a Department of the Treasury law enforcement organization,” 31 U.S.C.
 19 § 9705(g)(4)(B), otherwise known as Strategic Support funds. RJN Ex. 29 at 9. Any unobligated 20 balance, from Strategic Support or otherwise, is carried forward into the subsequent fiscal year, 21 where they may be used for TFF’s authorized purposes, which includes payments to the states.
 22 See 31 U.S.C. § 9705(g)(3)(C).

23 On February 15, 2019, the day of the Executive Action, Treasury informed Congress that it 24 would direct $601 million from TFF to DHS “to enhance border security infrastructure and 25 operations in support of CBP law enforcement efforts,” including “the plan, design, and 26 construction of a physical structure, using appropriate materials and technology to most override the veto, with 248 voting to override and 181 voting against an override. See id.

effectively achieve complete operational control of the southern border.” RJN Ex. 30. Treasury stated that $242 million of these funds would be available for obligation as of March 2, 2019, with the remaining $359 million to be available at an unspecified later date subject to receipt of additional anticipated forfeitures, without any further explanation. Id. According to a fact sheet released by the Trump Administration on March 4, 2019, the Administration intends to use the $601 million from TFF to “support construction of approximately 26 miles in the Rio Grande Valley,” RJN Ex. 31 at 2, the same area for which Congress already appropriated $1.375 billion for specified—but limited—pedestrian fencing in the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act. On April 2, 2019, in another legal action challenging Defendants’ unlawful diversion, Defendants submitted a declaration confirming that “[w]ith respect to barrier construction along the southern border, CBP will use TFF funds exclusively for projects in the RGV [Rio Grande Valley].” RJN Ex. 2, ¶ 12. Defendants intend to “start obligating [TFF] funds in the near future” and “intend[] to obligate all available TFF funds before the end of Fiscal Year 2019, or, if not, before the end of the 2019 calendar year.” Id. ¶ 11.

The second funding source at issue is DOD’s drug-interdiction account, from which President Trump directed the diversion of $2.5 billion toward construction of a border wall. RJN Ex. 28. Defendants rely on 10 U.S.C. § 284(b)(7) to access resources from that account, which authorizes the Secretary of Defense to support other federal agencies for the “[c]onstruction of roads and fences and installation of lighting to block drug smuggling corridors across international boundaries of the United States.” On February 26, 2019, the Trump Administration stated that in order to satisfy the president’s direction to use $2.5 billion from DOD’s drug interdiction account toward constructing a border wall, DOD “will augment existing counterdrug funds” through the Department’s transfer authority in § 8005 of the Department of Defense and Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations Act, 2019 and Continuing Appropriations Act, 2019 (FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act), Pub. L. No. 115-245, 132 Stat. 2981 (2018). DOD’s drug interdiction account is funded through an appropriation “[f]or drug interdiction and counter-drug activities” that was made in the FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act. Id. at 17. Section 8005 of this Act provides that this transfer authority “may not be used unless for

1 higher priority items, based on unforeseen military requirements, than those for which originally 2 appropriated and in no case where the item for which funds are requested has been denied by the 3 Congress.”

4 On March 25, 2019, Defendant DOD Acting Secretary Shanahan apprised Congress that 5 pursuant to § 8005, DOD was transferring $1 billion from DOD’s Military Personnel and Reserve 6 Personnel account to DOD’s drug-interdiction account to be used for barrier fencing. RJN Ex. 32.
7 DOD approved the transfer in response to a February 25 request by DHS for DOD to “assist with 8 the construction of fences[,] roads, and lighting” under § 284(b)(7) to “block drug-smuggling 9 corridors across the international boundary between the United States and Mexico” in certain 10 areas identified by DHS. RJN Ex. 33. In the March 25, 2019 response to DHS’s request, 11 Defendant Shanahan notified Defendant DHS Secretary Nielsen that he authorized the 12 Commander of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to utilize the $1 billion being transferred to 13 coordinate with DHS to assist in the construction of 18-foot-high-pedestrian fencing, the 14 construction and improvement of roads, and the installation of lighting in the Yuma Sector 15 Projects 1 and 2 (on the southwest border of Arizona) and El Paso Sector Project 1 (on the 16 southwest border of New Mexico) identified in DHS’s February 25 request. RJN Ex. 34.
17 Defendant Shanahan informed Defendant Nielsen that U.S. Customs and Border Protection 18 (CBP) “will serve as the lead agency for environmental compliance and will be responsible for 19 providing all necessary access to land,” and that “DHS will accept custody of the completed 20 infrastructure, account for that infrastructure in its real property records, and operate and maintain 21 the completed infrastructure.” Id.

22 On March 26, 2019, the House Armed Services Committee informed DOD that the 23 Committee “does not approve” of the request to transfer $1 billion “to construct additional 24 physical barriers and roads or install lighting in the vicinity of the United States Border.” RJN Ex.
25 35. On March 26, 2019, the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee similarly denied the 26 request. RJN Ex. 36. Although, historically, DOD has sought congressional approval prior to 27 using its transfer authority, see RJN Exs. 37-38, DOD has made clear that it intends to move 28 forward with this transfer irrespective of the absence of approval from Congress. RJN Exs. 32, 34, 39. A media report indicates that DOD has sent teams of engineers and experts to the El Paso Sector in New Mexico to conduct an assessment in preparation for construction, with construction anticipated to begin as early as the end of May.³ No public form of environmental review of the proposed construction has been commenced.

III. DEFENDANTS' ACTIONS HARM PLAINTIFF STATES

A. The Diversion of Funds through §§ 8005 and 284 toward Construction of a Border Wall Will Cause Environmental Harm to New Mexico

In December 2018, DHS announced its intention to prioritize the construction of a border wall in the El Paso Sector, which straddles the border between Texas and New Mexico and is primarily located in New Mexico. RJN Exs. 40, 41 (description of El Paso Sector from CBP website). As discussed supra, on February 25, DHS requested DOD's support with barrier construction in four sectors, including the El Paso Sector. RJN Ex. 33. As part of that request, DHS identified two projects for the El Paso Sector, including exact coordinates for each project. Id. at 9. DHS described El Paso Project 1 as "46 miles of vehicle barrier replacement beginning approximately 17.5 miles west of the Columbus Port of Entry continuing east in non-contiguous segments to approximately 35 miles east of the Columbus Port of Entry within the Luna and Doña Ana Counties, New Mexico." Id. at 9. DHS requested that the vehicle barrier be replaced with "new pedestrian fencing." Id. at 8. Vehicle fencing is the least detrimental border barrier to wildlife as most animals can cross under or between such fencing. App'x of Decls. re Env. Harms (Env. App'x) Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 13-16). Conversely, pedestrian fencing impedes most animals from passing through. Id. ¶ 17. Steel bollard pedestrian fencing typically only has a four-inch gap between posts. Id.

Construction of pedestrian fencing in place of a permeable vehicle barrier will have significant adverse effects on environmental resources, including direct and indirect impacts to endangered or threatened wildlife. The El Paso Project 1 border wall will bisect important wildlife habitats, impairing wildlife connectivity for species like the federally-endangered

1 Mexican wolf and the jaguar. Env. App'x Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶ 7); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 14-2 24, 27). Further, construction impacts such as noise and increased vehicle traffic will kill or injure 3 other important species such as the Alpomado falcon and the Gila monster that live in Doña Ana 4 and Luna Counties. Id. Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶¶ 16, 24, 25). El Paso Project 1 will also negatively
 5 affect State Trust Lands located near and within the Project site. Id. Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 6 27-30, Ex. B). These environmental impacts would not occur but for the diversion of 10 U.S.C.
 7 §§ 8005 and 284 funding as Congress only authorized construction in Rio Grande Valley Sector
 8 of Texas, not in New Mexico where these species live and traverse through. 2019 Consolidated 9 Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 116-6, § 230(a)(1), 133 Stat. 13, 28 (2019). Finally, because 10 Defendants are violating NEPA's environmental review requirements, New Mexico is suffering a 11 procedural injury in addition to the environmental injuries described above.

12 B. Plaintiff States Benefit from TFF Resources that Defendants Are Diverting 13 to Border Wall Construction

14 The statute governing TFF authorizes payments to state and local law enforcement agencies 15 for reimbursement of certain expenditures incurred as part of joint law enforcement operations 16 with federal law enforcement agencies that falls under the TFF program, 31 U.S.C.
 17 § 9705(a)(1)(B)(iii), (a)(1)(I), and “[e]quitable sharing payments” that Plaintiff States receive. Id.
 18 § 9705(a)(1)(G); App'x of Decls. re TFF (“TFF App'x”); see also RJN Ex. 29 at 9. State and 19 local law enforcement agencies have invested and will invest considerable resources and time in 20 participating in such joint operations. TFF App'x. Treasury is authorized to transfer forfeited 21 property “to any State or local law enforcement agency that participated directly or indirectly in 22 the seizure or forfeiture of the property.” 31 U.S.C. § 9705(h)(1)(B)(ii). The TFF statute requires 23 such transfers to “bear[] a reasonable relationship to the degree of participation of the State or 24 local agency in the law enforcement effort resulting in the forfeiture,” Id. § 9705(b)(4)(A), and 25 “serve to encourage further cooperation between the recipient State or local agency and Federal 26 law enforcement agencies.” Id. § 9705(b)(4)(B).

27 As a matter of practice, Treasury has paid out claims to state and local law enforcement 28 agencies once a seizure results in a forfeiture. TFF App'x. Plaintiff States have consistently

1 participated in the equitable sharing program since its inception in the early 1990s. TFF App'x
 2 Ex. 1 (Declaration of Michael Cayaban ["Cayaban Decl."] ¶¶ 6-9). Collectively, Plaintiff States
 3 have current outstanding claims from TFF totaling millions of dollars. See TFF App'x. Plaintiff
 4 States use these funds to support their law enforcement functions. State and local law
 5 enforcement agencies have used the amounts received from TFF to purchase needed law 6 enforcement equipment, pay overtime, provide necessary training to officers, and support 7 ongoing joint law enforcement task forces and operations. See generally TFF App'x.

8 For example, the New York Attorney General's Office has used its equitable share 9 payments to equip and train state and local law enforcement officers in the use of naloxone, 10 which is used to rapidly reverse opioid overdoses, as well as fund bulletproof vests for local law
 11 enforcement agencies. TFF App'x Ex. 2 (Decl. of John Genovese ¶ 11). In California, the denial 12 or reduction of the State's equitable share claims would adversely impact the ability of the 13 California Department of Justice to support law enforcement task forces and potentially result in 14 the termination of task force services in certain areas of the State. TFF App'x Ex. 3 (Decl. of 15 Kevin Gardner ¶¶ 15-16). The New Jersey Attorney General's Division of Criminal Justice
 16 utilized its equitable share payments to create a new digital evidence system in its Computer 17 Analysis and Technology Unit forensic lab, "which significantly enhances the State's ability to 18 obtain evidence of financial crimes." TFF App'x Ex. 4 (Decl. of William Cranford ¶ 14). Local 19 law enforcement agencies in Plaintiff States directly benefit from TFF as well. For instance, the 20 Chicago Police Department has used TFF money to fund the expansion of Strategic Decision 21 Support Centers that are designed to employ a new approach to gun violence prevention in 22 Chicago. TFF App'x Ex. 5 (Decl. of Susie Park ¶ 7). As Treasury acknowledges, "[s]tate and 23 local law enforcement agencies can use these resources to augment their law enforcement budgets 24 to fight crime in their jurisdictions. Without these funds, budgets of [these entities] would be 25 taxed to provide these important resources or the need would go unmet." RJN Ex. 29 at 13.

26 The $601 million designated for the border wall has been identified as Strategic Support.
 27 RJN Ex. 30. From FY 2010 to FY 2018, Treasury collectively pulled $584 million from the 28 Strategic Support account, less than the $601 million President Trump directed to be taken from the account for this fiscal year alone. Cayaban Decl. ¶ 11. Even before this diversion, the TFF account faced significant challenges in meeting its obligations, as “recently-enacted large rescissions” made by Congress from its operating budget “have had a severe negative impact” on law enforcement agencies that participate in the TFF program. RJN Ex. 42. Treasury recognized that “[i]nsufficient and inconsistent funding support, uncertainty about future funding, investigations disrupted by cash flow problems, and inability to obtain necessary technology/infrastructure in the absence of Strategic Support all undermine both current and future financial investigation and forfeitures.” Id. Treasury also noted that total revenue was at its lowest level in over a decade and the “substantial drop” in base revenue used to “cover basic mandatory costs of the forfeiture program is especially troubling.” RJN Ex. 43 at 4. Notably, in December 2015, when the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) Asset Forfeiture Fund faced a similar predicament caused by congressional rescissions from its operating budget, DOJ was compelled to suspend its equitable sharing program “[i]n order to maintain the financial solvency of the Program” RJN Ex. 44. TFF, which at the end of FY 2018 had approximately the same balance as the DOJ Asset Forfeiture Fund did in the fiscal year it suspended equitable sharing, see Cayaban Decl. ¶¶ 12-18, is now facing a similar crisis that Defendants’ diversion of $601 million has exacerbated.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

I. LEGAL STANDARD

“The purpose of a preliminary injunction is merely to preserve the relative positions of the parties until a trial on the merits can be held.” Univ. of Texas v. Camenisch, 451 U.S. 390, 395 (1981); Chalk v. U.S. Dist. Court Cent. Dist. of Cal., 840 F.2d 701, 704 (9th Cir. 1988) (“The basic function of a preliminary injunction is to preserve the status quo pending a determination of the action on the merits.”). A preliminary injunction is appropriate where a party shows: “(1) that [it] is likely to succeed on the merits, (2) that [it] is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, (3) that the balance of equities tips in [its] favor, and (4) that an injunction is in the public interest.” Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008) (numbering added). In the Ninth Circuit, “serious questions going to the merits and a balance of 1 hardships that tips sharply towards the plaintiff can support issuance of a preliminary injunction, 2 so long as the plaintiff also shows that there is a likelihood of irreparable injury and that the 3 injunction is in the public interest.” All. for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1135 (9th 4 Cir. 2011) (internal quotations omitted).

5 In the context of possible irreparable harm to endangered species, a preliminary injunction 6 generally must be granted. Nat’l. Wildlife Fed’n. v. Nat’l. Marine Fisheries Serv. (NWF), 422
 7 F.3d 782, 795-96 (9th Cir. 2005); Biodiversity Legal Found. v. Badgley, 309 F.3d 1166, 1177 (9th 8 Cir. 2002). There is a “well-established public interest in preserving nature and avoiding 9 irreparable environmental injury.” Cottrell, 632 F.3d at 1138 (internal citations omitted). The 10 Ninth Circuit has “recognized the public interest in careful consideration of environmental 11 impacts before major federal projects go forward, and [has] held that suspending such projects 12 until that consideration occurs comports with the public interest.” Id. (internal citations omitted).

13 II. PLAINTIFF STATES ARE LIKELY TO SUCCEED ON THE MERITS OF THEIR CLAIMS

14 Plaintiff States are likely to succeed on all of their claims. First, as discussed infra II(A)(1)- 15 (3), Defendants’ diversions of funds and resources violate the U.S. Constitution’s separation of 16 powers requirements, including those in the Presentment and Appropriations Clauses. The 17 separation of powers doctrine does not permit the president to “reject[] the policy judgment made 18 by Congress” to not appropriate billions of dollars toward construction of a border wall. Clinton 19 v. City of New York, 524 U.S. 417, 444 (1998). By using a procedure outside the one delineated in 20 the Constitution to unilaterally supplement the $1.375 billion appropriation made by Congress for 21 limited barrier fencing with an additional $6.7 billion (including the $1.6 billion that is the subject 22 of this motion) for a border barrier in areas not approved by Congress, Defendants violate the 23 Presentment Clause, U.S. Const., art. I, § 7. City of New York, 524 U.S. at 444-47. Also, by 24 relying on a general appropriation where there is a specific appropriation that governs barrier 25 funding, Defendants violate the Appropriations Clause, U.S. Const., art. I, § 9, cl. 7.

26 Second, as discussed infra II(B)(1)-(2), not only do Defendants’ diversions violate the 27 Constitution, but Defendants fail to satisfy the criteria in the underlying statutes that must be met 28 in order to divert funding and use resources in the first place. See Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

1 v. Sawyer, 343 U.S. 579, 586 (1952) (since the statutory “conditions were not met” to authorize 2 seizure of property, the president lacked statutory authority to implement the executive order 3 directing seizure of the steel mills). Consequently, Defendants have acted ultra vires and “in 4 excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right,” in violation
 5 of the APA. 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(C); see also City of Arlington v. FCC, 569 U.S. 290, 297 (2013)
 6 (When an official “act[s] improperly, no less than when they act beyond their jurisdiction, what 7 they do is ultra vires.”).

8 Third, as discussed infra II(C), Defendants have violated the APA by failing to provide a 9 rational explanation for the diversions.

10 Fourth, and finally, as discussed infra II(D), Defendants have violated NEPA by failing to 11 consider the environmental impacts of the proposed construction on the southwest border of New 12 Mexico.

13 A. Plaintiff States Are Likely to Succeed on Their Constitutional Claims

14 1. Separation of Powers and Appropriations Principles

15 To avoid one branch of government usurping the powers of another, the Framers of the U.S.
 16 Constitution delineated distinct lines of responsibility between them to serve as a “structural 17 protection[] against abuse of power.” Bowsher v. Synar, 478 U.S. 714, 730 (1986). The Framers 18 viewed the “power over the purse . . . as the most complete and effectual weapon with which any 19 constitution can arm the immediate representatives of the people.” The Federalist No. 58 (James 20 Madison). If, contrary to this precept, “the decision to spend [is] determined by the Executive 21 alone, without adequate control by the citizen’s Representatives in Congress, liberty is 22 threatened.” City of New York, 524 U.S. at 451 (Kennedy, J., concurring).

23 In furtherance of these fundamental principles, the Constitution provides that all legislative 24 powers are granted exclusively to Congress, U.S. Const., art. I, § 1, which includes the power to 25 spend and appropriate funding. Id. art. I, § 8. Under the Presentment Clause, every bill must pass 26 the House of Representatives and the Senate before being presented to the president. Id. art. I, § 7, 27 cl. 2. The president then must either sign the bill, in whole, or veto it and return it to Congress. Id.
 28 Once a bill becomes law, the president must “take care that the laws be faithfully executed.” Id.,

1 art. II, § 3. All of these constitutional provisions “were intended to erect enduring checks on each 2 Branch and to protect the people from the improvident exercise of power by mandating certain 3 prescribed steps. To preserve those checks, and maintain the separation of powers, the carefully 4 defined limits on the power of each Branch must not be eroded.” INS. v. Chadha, 462 U.S. 919, 5 957-58 (1983). Specifically, within this constitutional design, “the President’s power to see that 6 the laws are faithfully executed refutes the idea that he is to be a lawmaker.” Youngstown, 343
 7 U.S. at 587.

8 In Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. v. Sawyer, the Supreme Court held that the president’s 9 executive order directing the seizure of steel mills during a work stoppage was unconstitutional, 10 as it did not stem from any power afforded to the president either by Congress or the Constitution.
 11 Id. at 585. The Constitution does not grant to the president any inherent powers during an 12 emergency to “usurp[]” Congress’s legislative functions, limiting the president’s powers to those 13 that Congress has conferred. Id. at 649-50 (Jackson, J. concurring); see also id. (noting the 14 Founders “knew what emergencies were,” and “omitted” powers to the president to act in times 15 of emergency). The Court deemed it significant that Congress had explicitly rejected an 16 amendment to the relevant statute that would have authorized seizure by the president as a 17 method for resolving labor disputes. Id. at 586. As recognized by Justice Jackson in his oft-cited 18 concurring opinion, “[w]hen the President takes measures incompatible with the express or 19 implied will of Congress, his power is at its lowest ebb, for then he can rely only upon his own 20 constitutional powers minus any constitutional powers of Congress over the matter.” Id. at 637.

21 After Youngstown, in Clinton v. City of New York, the Court concluded that even Congress 22 cannot adopt procedures for making legislation that disturb the Constitution’s separation of 23 powers framework. The Court held that Congress violated the constitutional design by giving the 24 president line-item veto power, which would have permitted the president to cancel 25 appropriations after they were passed by Congress and signed into law. Such a procedure violates 26 the Presentment Clause because Congress cannot by statute “alter the procedures set out in 27 Article I, § 7, without amending the Constitution.” City of New York, 524 U.S. at 446.

1 These principles apply with particular force in the area of appropriations, an intrinsically 2 legislative function. The Constitution directs that “[n]o money shall be drawn from the Treasury, 3 but in consequence of appropriations made by law.” U.S. Const. art. I, § 9, cl. 7. The 4 Appropriations Clause is a “straightforward and explicit command” that “no money can be paid 5 out of the Treasury unless it has been appropriated by an act of Congress.” Off. of Pers. Mgmt. v.
 6 Richmond, 496 U.S. 414, 424 (1990) (quoting Cincinnati Soap Co. v. United States, 301 U.S.
 7 308, 321 (1937)). The Appropriations Clause is a “bulwark of the Constitution’s separation of 8 powers among the three branches of the National Government. It is particularly important as a 9 restraint on Executive Branch officers: If not for the Appropriations Clause, ‘the executive would 10 possess an unbounded power over the public purse of the nation; and might apply all its monied 11 resources at his pleasure.’” U.S. Dep’t of Navy v. Fed. Labor Rel. Auth., 665 F.3d 1339, 1347 12 (D.C. Cir. 2012) (Kavanaugh, J.) (quoting Joseph Story, Commentaries on the Constitution of the 13 United States § 1342, at 213-14 (1833)); United States v. McIntosh, 833 F.3d 1163, 1175 (9th Cir.
 14 2016) (“The Appropriations Clause plays a critical role in the Constitution’s separation of powers 15 among the three branches of government and the checks and balances between them.”).

16 Known as the “Purpose Statute,” 31 U.S.C. § 1301, which was originally enacted in 1809, 17 “codified what was already required under the Appropriations Clause of the Constitution.” Gov’t 18 Accountability Office (GAO), Office of the General Counsel, Principles of Federal 19 Appropriations Law 3-10 (4th Ed. 2017) (citing 4 Lawrence, First. Comp. Dec. 137, 142 (1883)).
 20 In that regard, § 1301(a) “reinforce[s] Congress’s control over appropriated funds,” Dep’t of the 21 Navy, 665 F.3d at 1347, by requiring appropriations to be applied only “to the objects for which 22 the appropriations were made except as otherwise provided by law.” 31 U.S.C. § 1301(a). The 23 limitations on how an agency may use appropriated funds under both the Appropriations Clause 24 and § 1301(a) are memorialized in the GAO, Office of the General Counsel, Principles of Federal 25 Appropriations (4th Ed. 2017), also referred to as the GAO Red Book.⁴ Cf. Dep’t of the Navy, 26 665 F.3d at 1349 (regarding the “assessment of the GAO” and its principles as “expert opinion”

27 28 ⁴ The GAO Red Book discussed in this motion is available on GAO’s website at <https://www.gao.gov/assets/690/687162.pdf>.

1 when considering whether an agency order was consistent with the Appropriations Clause and § 2 1301(a)) (quoting Delta Data Sys. Corp. v. Webster, 744 F.2d 197, 201 & n.1 (D.C. Cir. 1984)
 3 (Scalia, J.)).

4 As reflected in these principles, in order for an agency to make an expenditure that 5 complies with § 1301(a), and hence the Appropriations Clause, it must follow the “necessary 6 expense rule.” GAO Red Book at 3-14-15. Among other requirements, the necessary expense rule 7 prohibits an agency from relying on a general appropriation for an expenditure when that 8 expenditure falls specifically “within the scope of some other appropriation or statutory funding 9 scheme.” Id. at 3-16-17, 407-10. “Otherwise, an agency could evade or exceed congressionally 10 established spending limits,” id. at 3-408, which the Constitution forbids. See Richmond, 496 U.S.
 11 at 428 (“If agents of the Executive were able, by their unauthorized [actions], to obligate the 12 Treasury for the payment of funds, the control over public funds that the Clause reposes in 13 Congress in effect could be transferred to the Executive.”).

14 2. Defendants Have Violated the Separation of Powers, Including the 15 Presentment Clause

16 Defendants have violated the separation of powers doctrine in this specific case by 17 unilaterally modifying the limited border barrier appropriation in the FY 2019 Consolidated 18 Appropriations Act contrary to Congress’s express and implied intent. Between 2017 and 2018, 19 Congress repeatedly refused to appropriate or authorize billions of dollars in funding toward a 20 border wall. See, e.g., RJN Ex. 14-20, 24; see also City & Cty. of San Francisco v. Trump, 897 21 F.3d 1225, 1234 (9th Cir. 2018) (“The sheer amount of failed legislation . . . demonstrates the 22 importance and divisiveness of the policies in play . . .”). At the end of 2018, President Trump 23 demanded $5.7 billion in border wall funding, which was later formalized in a specific request by 24 the OMB. RJN Ex. 25. Eventually, after a nearly two-month standoff, including a record 35-day 25 partial government shutdown over funding for a border wall, Congress passed the 2019 26 Consolidated Appropriations Act that approved $1.375 billion for limited pedestrian fencing in 27 the Rio Grande Valley Sector in Texas subject to specific conditions, denying the president the 28 appropriation he requested. Pub. L. No. 116-6, §§ 230-32, 133 Stat. 13, 28 (2019). On the same

1 day that President Trump signed the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act into law, he 2 announced the repurposing of up to $6.7 billion in additional funding (including the $1.6 billion 3 that is the subject of this motion) to supplement the funding provided by Congress. RJN Ex. 28.

4 Defendants' diversions of funding and resources violate separation of powers principles in 5 at least two ways. First, the president is acting at the "lowest ebb of his power" here by flouting 6 Congress's clearly expressed will. Youngstown, 343 U.S. at 637 (Jackson, J., concurring); see San 7 Francisco, 897 F.3d at 1234 (upholding injunction on executive order to withhold funds from 8 "sanctuary jurisdictions" where "Congress has frequently considered and thus far rejected 9 legislation accomplishing the goals of the Executive Order"). Even if statutes such as 10 U.S.C.
 10 § 284 or 31 U.S.C. § 9705 may generally permit the Executive Branch to divert funding in some 11 instances not present here, Congress's more recent and specific action to explicitly refuse any 12 funding for a border barrier beyond the $1.375 billion for a specific type of pedestrian fencing and 13 only in the Rio Grande Valley precludes Defendants from thwarting the will of Congress 14 expressed in the 2019 Consolidated Appropriation Act. See Youngstown, 343 U.S. at 586.
 15 "Where Congress has addressed the subject as it has here, and authorized expenditures where a 16 condition is met, the clear implication is that where the condition is not met, the expenditure is 17 not authorized." United States v. MacCollom, 426 U.S. 317, 321 (1976); see also Benda v. Grand 18 Lodge of Int'l Assoc. of Machinists & Aerospace Workers, 584 F.2d 308, 313 (9th Cir. 1978) 19 ("[W]e believe that an expression of specific congressional intent should prevail over the 20 conflicting general policy implications of a prior federal statute.").

21 Second, Defendants' proposed diversions violate the Presentment Clause. That clause 22 commands that legislation must be passed by both houses of Congress, and the president must 23 either sign or veto the legislation in toto. If the latter, the president must return it to Congress in 24 full to provide Congress the opportunity to override his veto. U.S. Const. art. I, § 7, cl. 2. As 25 discussed supra, in City of New York, the Supreme Court already determined that under the 26 Presentment Clause, the president does not possess the power to single-handedly cancel 27 appropriations approved by both Houses of Congress after they were signed into law. 524 U.S. at 28

1 436-41. “There is no provision in the Constitution that authorizes the president to enact, to 2 amend, or to repeal statutes.” Id. at 438.

3 Here, Defendants violate the Presentment Clause by effectively seeking to amend the FY 4 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act, where Congress provided a $1.375 billion appropriation 5 for limited border barrier funding for construction limited to a specified area, with $6.7 billion in 6 additional funding that is not subject to the specific constraints imposed by Congress. The 7 Constitution does not empower “the President himself to effect the repeal [or modification] of 8 laws, for his own policy reasons, without observing the procedures set out in Article I, § 7 [of the 9 U.S. Constitution].” Id. at 445. The Constitution constrains the president from acting as a 10 lawmaker in this manner, Youngstown, 343 U.S. at 587, and “exclusively grants the power of the 11 purse to Congress, not the President,” San Francisco, 897 F.3d at 1231. Whether at some earlier 12 point Congress provided the president with general authority to divert funding in some instances 13 not applicable here “is of no moment.” City of New York, 524 U.S. at 445-46. The Constitution 14 does not permit the president to “amend” an appropriation for a border barrier after signing it into 15 law by increasing its amount and expanding the scope of where and how the barrier may be built.
16 Id. at 438.

17 Notwithstanding the president’s expressed frustration with Congress and the legislative 18 process, he must act in accordance with the procedures established in the Constitution to obtain 19 funding for his border wall. See id. at 445-46, 449. “There is no support in the Constitution or 20 decisions of [the Supreme] Court for the proposition that the cumbersomeness and delays often 21 encountered in complying with explicit constitutional standards may be avoided, either by the 22 Congress or by the President.” Chadha, 462 U.S. at 959. Accordingly, the president cannot scour 23 the federal coffers to fund projects that Congress refused to appropriate. Nor can the president 24 take funds from other sources as a way of circumventing conditions set by Congress on a specific 25 appropriation. “[T]he fact that a given law or procedure is efficient, convenient, and useful in 26 facilitating functions of government, standing alone, will not save it if it is contrary to the 27 Constitution. Convenience and efficiency are not the primary objectives—or the hallmarks—of 28 democratic government” Id. at 944.

3. Defendants Have Violated the Appropriations Clause

Defendants' diversions of funds also violate the Appropriations Clause, as Congress has not appropriated the diverted funds toward a border wall. U.S. Const., art. I, § 9, cl. 7 ("No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law."). As discussed supra, in protection of "congressionally established spending limits," it is "well-settled" that an expenditure may not be paid out of a general appropriation "where the expenditure falls specifically within the scope of another appropriation." GAO Red Book at 3-407-08; see also 65 Comp. Gen. 881, 884 (1986) ("As a general rule, an appropriation for a specific object is available for that object to the exclusion of a more general appropriation which might otherwise be considered available for the same object, and the exhaustion of the specific appropriation does not authorize charging any excess payment to a more general appropriation").

This restriction in the expenditure of appropriations is supported by a "legion" of GAO decisions "from time immemorial." Id. at 3-409 (collecting cases dating back to 1894 and quoting 1 Comp. Dec. 126 (1894)). For example, the Department of Navy could not use a general appropriation that was provided to it for the purpose of dredging a river "because dredging rivers was a function for which funds were appropriated to the Army Corps of Engineers, not the Navy and that the Corps was specifically charged by law to improve the nation's waterways." Id. at 3-408-09 (citing B-139510, May 13, 1959). The D.C. Circuit likewise determined that although Congress appropriated $190 million to the Department of Energy to grant funds for nuclear waste disposal activities, "the fact that Congress appropriated $1 million expressly for Nevada" from an alternative and more specific source for that same purpose, "indicates that is all Congress intended Nevada to get [for that fiscal year]." Nevada v. Dep't of Energy, 400 F.3d 9, 16 (D.C. Cir. 2005); see also 36 Comp. Gen. 526 (1957) ("The specific appropriation of $18,000,000 for the construction [of a specific atomic ship], which was passed after the general appropriation act for ship construction for the same fiscal year had been enacted without funds for the [specific] ship, precludes [the agency] from using any of the funds in the general appropriation for the [specific] ship and from expending more for this construction than the amount provided in the supplemental appropriation.").

1 This longstanding limitation applies here. Congress specifically appropriated $1.375 billion
 2 to fund a barrier for a specific and limited segment of the southwest border. Defendants now 3 attempt to supplement that appropriation by using funds that were more generally appropriated 4 for “drug interdiction and counter-drug activities,” FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act at 17, or 5 “in connection with [federal] law enforcement activities,” 31 U.S.C. § 9705(g)(4)(B), in order to 6 fund additional portions of President Trump’s border wall project that were not part of Congress’s 7 specific appropriation. Defendants’ attempt to use general appropriations to fund work that is 8 typically the responsibility of DHS aggravates the violation. See 6 U.S.C. § 211(e)(3) & (g)(3)(C)
 9 (CBP’s responsibilities to monitor land borders); see also B-139510 (GAO May 13, 1959) 10 (Department of Navy could not use its general appropriation to conduct work that is specifically 11 assigned to another agency). In particular, Defendants have confirmed that they will be using 12 funds from TFF “exclusively” toward construction of a barrier in the Rio Grande Valley, the 13 same area that Congress appropriated $1.375 billion for in the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations 14 Act. Pub. L. No. 116-6, § 230(a)(1), 133 Stat. 13, 28 (2019). RJN Exs. 2, ¶ 12 & 31. Because “a 15 specific appropriation exists for a particular item,” i.e. the $1.375 billion, “then that appropriation 16 must be used and it is improper to charge any other appropriations for that item.” GAO Principles 17 at 3-409. For all of these reasons, Defendants’ actions violate the Appropriations Clause by 18 “authoriz[ing] the expenditure of funds beyond what Congress has approved” for a particular 19 project. U.S. Dep’t of the Air Force v. Fed. Labor Rels. Auth., 648 F.3d 841, 845, 847-48 (D.C.
 20 Cir. 2011) (using appropriated funds to clean uniforms would be a violation of the Appropriations 21 Clause where the authorization to expend funds “for purchase and upkeep of uniforms” was 22 deleted without explanation from Congress’s conference report).

23 B. Plaintiff States Are Likely to Succeed on their Claims that Defendants 24 Have Acted Ultra Vires and in Excess of Statutory Authority

25 Even leaving aside the express funding limits in the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act 26 and the Act’s further limitations on where and how that funding could be utilized, Defendants are 27 exceeding the authority provided by Congress in their diversion of funds from two sources. The 28 first is DOD’s drug-interdiction account, which Defendants have attempted to enlarge by transferring $1 billion from DOD's military personnel account into the drug-interdiction account for the sole purpose of paying for border wall construction. The second is the TFF. Defendants have acted ultra vires and in excess of statutory authority with both of these diversions.

1. Defendants Lack Statutory Authority to Divert Funding and Resources for Construction of a Border Wall Under 10 U.S.C. § 284 and § 8005 of the FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act

Defendants seek to exploit the DOD's drug-interdiction account to divert the largest tranche of funding to date for border wall construction. Defendants' scheme involves two steps. First, Defendants rely on § 8005 of the FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act to transfer $1 billion in funding that Congress appropriated for military personnel to the DOD's drug-interdiction account. RJN Ex 31. Second, Defendant Shanahan has announced that DOD will obligate the $1 billion transferred into the account to support DHS's construction of border fencing under § 284(b)(7). RJN Ex. 32. Defendants must therefore satisfy the criteria set forth by Congress in both § 8005 and § 284(b)(7); the failure to satisfy the criteria under either provision means that Defendants lack the authority to use the $1 billion to construct a border wall. Here, Defendants fail to satisfy the criteria of both provisions.

The transfer into the drug-interdiction account violates the restrictions on DOD's authority imposed by § 8005. Although Congress has given DOD authority to re-direct unused funds in § 8005, it has long restricted that authority. Starting in the FY 1974 appropriations act for DOD, Pub. L. No. 93-238, 87 Stat. 1026, 1044, § 735 (1974), Congress included conditions on DOD's transfer authority to "tighten congressional control of the re-programming process." H.R. Rep. No. 93-662, at 16 (1973). As explained in the legislative history, on some occasions, DOD "has requested that funds which have been specifically deleted in the legislative process be restored through the re-programming process. The Committee believes that to concur in such actions would place committees in the position of undoing the work of Congress." Id. Accordingly, DOD's ability to transfer funds is now subject to several limitations, including that transfers may be made only "for higher priority items, based on unforeseen military requirements, than those for which originally appropriated," and that "in no case where the item for which funds are requested has been denied by Congress.” FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 115-245, § 8005, 132 Stat. 2981, 2999 (2018) see also 10 U.S.C. § 2214(d) (imposing the same requirements).

Defendants’ actions here violate these restrictions. In the first place, there is no “unforeseen military requirement.” The president’s desire for a border wall was certainly “foreseen”: the president has called for a border wall throughout his presidency and indeed, well before he even became president. See, e.g., RJN Exs. 3-13. The president directed DOD to provide support and resources to the southern border in an April 4, 2018 memorandum, RJN Ex. 27, nearly six months before enactment of the FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act. At that time, the president declared, “Until we can have a wall and proper security, we are going to be guarding our border with our military.” RJN Ex. 7. The president and DOD, therefore, had ample opportunity to request DOD funding from Congress to construct a border wall as part of the FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act; their failure to do so strongly undercuts any contention that a border wall is an unforeseen military requirement. See generally FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act, 132 Stat. 2981.

Nor is a border wall a “military requirement.” The protection of the border is the job of DHS, not DOD.⁵ To the extent that DOD has a role, it is limited to the “detection and monitoring of aerial and maritime transit of illegal drugs into the United States.” 10 U.S.C. § 124 (emphasis added). Congress has not assigned DOD with military responsibilities for enforcement of land borders even in this limited respect. See 18 U.S.C. § 1385 (posse comitatus act forbidding use of military to execute the laws). Even though Congress has authorized DOD to support construction of border fencing under § 284(b)(7) when Congress has appropriated funding to DOD to do so, it has by no means required DOD to undertake this task. In fact, Congress typically appropriates funds for DHS to perform this function, including in the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act, ⁵ See 6 U.S.C. § 211(c) (listing among CBP commissioner’s duties to: “(2) ensure the interdiction of persons and goods illegally entering or exiting the United States; . . . (5) detect, respond to, and interdict terrorists, drug smugglers and traffickers, human smugglers and traffickers, and other persons who may undermine the security of the United States, in cases in which such persons are entering, or have recently entered, the United States; (6) safeguard the borders of the United States to protect against the entry of dangerous goods”), (e)(3) (listing U.S. Border Patrol’s duties to: “(A) serve as the law enforcement office of [CBP] with primary responsibility for interdicting persons attempting to illegally enter or exit the United States or goods being illegally imported into or exported from the United States at a place other than a designated port of entry; (B) deter and prevent the illegal entry of terrorists, terrorist weapons, persons, and contraband; and (C) carry out other duties and powers prescribed by the Commissioner”).

1 Pub. L. No. 116-6, § 230(a)(1), 133 Stat. 13, and DHS, in turn, has used civilian private 2 contractors to carry out these border barriers appropriations after DOD informed DHS that 3 “military personnel would no longer be available to build fencing.” RJN Ex. 45. Moreover, top 4 military officials, including Defendant Shanahan, have testified that the situation at the border “is 5 not a military threat.” RJN Ex. 46; see also RJN Ex. 47 at 24. In fact, the Director of National 6 Intelligence’s most recent “Worldwide Threat Assessment” does not even mention the southwest
 7 border as a security threat. RJN Ex. 48 at 41; see also RJN Ex. 46 at 46 (Defendant Shanahan 8 stating that “30 or 40 percent” of the 6,000 troops stationed at the border would be departing “in 9 the next month or so”).

10 Finally, funds cannot be transferred under § 8005 to construct the proposed border wall 11 because the proposed wall is an “item for which funds [have been] requested [and] has been 12 denied by the Congress.” FY 2019 DOD Appropriations Act, § 8005. The president repeatedly 13 asked Congress for—and was denied—$5.7 billion for a border wall. See, e.g., RJN Exs. 21, 23, 14 26. While the House on December 20, 2018, passed a funding bill that would have provided $5.7 15 billion to CBP for “Procurement, Construction, and Improvements” without any limitation on 16 how those funds could be used, RJN Ex. 24, that proposed appropriation never became law and 17 was removed from the 2019 Consolidated Appropriations Act. See §§ 230-32, 133 Stat. at 28-29.
 18 On January 6, 2019, the OMB requested $5.7 billion from Congress to “fund construction of a 19 total of approximately 234 miles of new physical barrier [on the southwest border].” RJN Ex. 25.
 20 Congress, however, denied OMB’s request, instead, appropriating only $1.375 billion to construct 21 a limited amount of barrier fencing in the Rio Grande Valley. 2019 Consolidated Appropriations 22 Act, §§ 230-32, 133 Stat. at 28-29. Because Congress denied Defendants’ request for funds 23 beyond this appropriated amount, § 8005 prohibits Defendants from transferring the additional $1 24 billion for border wall construction.

25 In addition to exceeding statutory authority by transferring DOD funds into the drug-26 interdiction under § 8005, Defendants further lack authority under § 284(b)(7) to use DOD 27 resources to construct President Trump’s proposed border wall. Far from providing authorization 28 to construct fencing across broad swaths of the border, § 284(b)(7) merely authorizes DOD

“support” for the “[c]onstruction of roads and fences and installation of lighting to block drug smuggling corridors across international boundaries of the United States.” Here, DOD is not just providing “support” for the border wall; it is completely funding the construction of fencing in the El Paso Sector. RJN Ex. 34. Moreover, § 284 could only be read to authorize the support of “small scale construction.” Section 284(h) requires congressional notification fifteen days before DOD provides support under this subsection. The section additionally requires that DOD provide “a description of any small scale construction project for which support is provided” under § 284(b), but imposes no similar requirement for other construction projects. “[S]mall scale construction” is defined by § 284(i)(3) as “construction at a cost not to exceed $750,000 for any project,” which is significantly less than the $1 billion that Defendants have directed to be used from the drug-interdiction account toward border wall construction. As a matter of statutory construction, it strains logic that Congress would have required DOD to provide more notice for “small scale construction” of $750,000 or less than it would have for the $1 billion construction project of the type proposed by Defendants here. See Silvers v. Sony Pictures Entm’t, Inc., 402 F.3d 881, 900 (9th Cir. 2005) (“[Another] consideration in statutory interpretation is practicality, or put another way, the avoidance of an absurd result.”).

Thus, Defendants’ proposed diversion of funds and resources from the military personnel account for transfer to the drug-interdiction account, and from the drug-interdiction account to the border wall, fail to comport with the very statutes that they invoke.

2. Defendants Lack Statutory Authority to Divert Funds from TFF Pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 9705 for Construction of a Border Wall

Defendants’ proposed transfer of funds from TFF to construct a border wall also exceeds the scope of Treasury’s authority under TFF’s authorizing statute. That statute allows Defendants to obligate or expend funding “in connection with . . . law enforcement activities of any Federal agency.” 31 U.S.C. § 9705(g)(4)(B). Although subdivision (a) of the TFF authorizing statute lists no less than 33 “law enforcement purposes” that TFF may fund, id. § 9705(a), not one of those purposes entails infrastructure construction. This omission reflects the established meaning of the term “law enforcement activities.” As the GAO has recognized, the term “federal law enforcement activities” covers: “[t]he costs of operating the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Customs and Border Protection, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, the Drug Enforcement Administration, and police and crime prevention activities in other programs.” See GAO, A Glossary of Terms Used in the Federal Budget Process 144-45 (2005). Thus, while CBP’s “law enforcement activities” include “interdicting persons attempting to illegally enter or exit the United States or goods being illegally imported into or exported from the United States,” 6 U.S.C. § 211(e)(3)(A), it does not include building a border wall.

C. Plaintiff States Are Likely to Succeed on their APA Claim

For the reasons discussed supra sections II(A)-(B), Defendants have violated the APA because Defendants have acted “contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege or immunity,” 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(B), and “in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, short of statutory right.” Id. § 706(2)(C). Defendants’ actions additionally violate the APA because they are arbitrary and capricious. Id. § 706(2)(A).

“[A]n agency must cogently explain why it has exercised its discretion in a given manner.” Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass’n of U.S. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 48 (1983). When an agency departs from prior agency practice, under the APA, it must “acknowledge and provide an adequate explanation for its departure from established precedent, and an agency that neglects to do so acts arbitrarily and capriciously.” Jicarilla Apache Nation v. U.S. Dep’t of the Interior, 613 F.3d 1112, 1119 (D.C. Cir. 2010) (internal citation omitted); see also Encino Motorcars, LLC v. Navarro, 136 S. Ct. 2117, 2126 (2016) (agency cannot depart from prior policy without “explaining its changed position”); FCC v. Fox Television Stations, Inc., 556 U.S. 502, 515 (2009) (reversing a pre-existing policy requires a “more detailed justification than what would suffice for a new policy created on a blank slate”).

Defendants’ use of §§ 8005, 284, and 9705 to divert funding toward the construction of a border wall reflects a change in agency policy, but Defendants provide no awareness of this change or “good reasons” for doing so. Id. at 515. Although DOD has historically requested congressional approval prior to using its transfer authority under § 8005, RJN Exs. 37-38, DOD has not done so here without recognizing that this is a change in practice. See RJN Exs. 32, 34.

1 The intended use of counter-narcotic funds under § 284 for the purpose of constructing a border
 2 wall is a marked departure from past precedent, as an instructions document from the Joint Chiefs
 3 dated January 2007 discusses the use of § 284 funds only in terms of “military engineering 4 support . . . defined as mobility and countermobility (fences, lights, roads) efforts,” which are 5 different from the wholesale construction of a border wall as envisioned by President Trump.
 6 RJN Ex. 49. Indeed, that document states that “military engineering support” provided under § 7 284 “does not include military construction.” Id. And Defendants have exhibited no “awareness” 8 that, for the first time, they are using TFF monies to support construction of a barrier on the 9 border, see RJN Ex. 30, let alone provide “good reasons” for this departure in policy. Fox, 556
 10 U.S. at 515.

11 Nor does Defendants’ arbitrary and capricious conduct stop there. Courts find agency 12 action to be arbitrary and capricious if the agency has “[a] relied on factors which Congress has 13 not intended it to consider; [b] entirely failed to consider an important aspect of the problem; [or] 14 [c] offered an explanation for its decision that runs counter to the evidence before the agency.”
 15 State Farm, 463 U.S. at 43. Any of these defects would suffice to find the diversion of funding 16 and resources arbitrary and capricious. Here, all three exist.

17 First, as a general proposition, Defendants have not, and cannot, demonstrate they acted 18 consistent with any factors that Congress intended because, for the reasons discussed, supra, 19 Congress explicitly did not intend for Defendants to allocate any funds toward a border barrier 20 beyond the $1.375 billion appropriated by Congress for limited pedestrian fencing in the Rio 21 Grande Valley. Second, Defendants have shown no indication that they considered the significant 22 liquidity challenges that TFF currently faces, supra at 12, in removing $601 million in Strategic 23 Support, more than has been allocated for Strategic Support for the past nine fiscal years 24 combined. See Cayaban Decl. ¶ 11. Third, as to the use of §§ 8005 and 284, Defendants have 25 acted, without explanation, contrary to the evidence that is before the DOD by using DOD funds 26 and resources toward border wall construction when DOD officials have acknowledged that the 27 situation at the border is not a military threat. RJN Exs. 47-49. “Unexplained inconsistency is . . .
 28 a reason for holding an interpretation to be an arbitrary and capricious change from agency

1 practice under the [APA].” Nat’l Cable & Telecomms. Ass’n v. Brand X Internet Servs., 545 U.S.
 2 967, 981 (2005).

3 D. Plaintiff States Are Likely to Succeed on their NEPA Claim

4 In addition, Defendants have violated NEPA by failing to conduct an environmental review 5 of the construction they plan (improperly) to undertake. NEPA is the country’s “basic national 6 charter for protection of the environment.” 40 C.F.R. § 1500.1(a). NEPA requires environmental 7 review of “major Federal actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment . . .
 8 .” 42 U.S.C. § 4332(C). The goal of this environmental review is to ensure “that environmental 9 information is available to public officials and citizens before decisions are made and before 10 actions are taken.” 40 C.F.R. § 1500.1(b). To achieve this goal, “[a]n agency shall commence 11 preparation of an environmental impact statement as close as possible to the time the agency is 12 developing or presented with a proposal” Id. § 1502.5. A “[p]roposal exists at that stage in 13 the development of an action when an agency subject to [NEPA] has a goal and is actively 14 preparing to make a decision on one or more alternative means of accomplishing that goal and the 15 effects can be meaningfully evaluated.” Id. § 1508.23.

16 Here, DHS set forth a proposal as early as December 12, 2018, in which DHS stated that it
 17 planned to build a border wall in six sectors, including the El Paso Sector in New Mexico. RJN 18 Ex. 40. DHS later crystalized its proposal in a February 25, 2019 request to DOD identifying 19 exact coordinates for where it proposes the wall to be built. RJN Ex. 33. While preparing to make 20 these decisions, DHS was required to engage in a public environmental review process that 21 includes the preparation of an environmental impact statement. Instead, DHS made these 22 determinations without the required environmental review.⁶

23 According to Defendant Shanahan’s March 25 communications to Congress and Defendant
 24 Nielsen, Defendants plan to use the $1 billion transferred to the drug-interdiction account to begin

25 _____
 26 ⁶ The proposed projects are not located within areas covered by any existing waiver from NEPA
 27 requirements issued by the DHS Secretary pursuant to § 102 of the Illegal Immigration Reform
 28 and Immigrant Responsibility Act (8 U.S.C. § 1103 note). 84 Fed. Reg. 2897 (Feb. 8, 2019); 83
 Fed. Reg. 3012 (Jan. 22, 2018); 82 Fed. Reg. 42829 (Sept. 12, 2017); 82 Fed. Reg. 35984 (Aug.
 2, 2017), each of which pertained to projects that were authorized under that section and appropriated for by Congress.

1 construction in the El Paso and Yuma Sectors in New Mexico and Arizona, respectively. RJN 2 Exs. 34-35. Now, not only has DHS made a decision that required environmental review, it has 3 secured funding, unlawfully, to effectuate that decision. NEPA thus required environmental 4 review months ago. “NEPA’s object is to minimize . . . the risk of uninformed choice, a risk that 5 arises in part from the practical fact that bureaucratic decisionmakers (when the law permits) are 6 less likely to tear down a nearly completed project than a barely started project.” Sierra Club v.
 7 Marsh, 872 F.2d 497, 500–01 (1st Cir. 1989); see also 40 C.F.R. § 1502.5 (“The statement shall 8 be prepared early enough so that it can serve practically as an important contribution to the 9 decisionmaking process and will not be used to rationalize or justify decisions already made.”).
 10 DHS made an “uninformed choice” and violated NEPA by failing to conduct any environmental 11 review before the December 12, 2018 decision regarding the location of the barriers or the March 12 25, 2019 funding decision.

13 III. PLAINTIFF STATES ARE LIKELY TO SUFFER IRREPARABLE HARM FROM THE 14 FUNDING DIVERSIONS

15 A. New Mexico is Likely to Suffer Irreparable Harm from the Environmental 16 Impacts Caused by the Diversion of Funding and Resources and 17 Construction of Border Wall Without Proper Environmental Review

18 As the Ninth Circuit has observed, “[e]nvironmental injury, by its nature, can seldom be 19 adequately remedied by money damages and is often permanent or at least of long duration, i.e., 20 irreparable.” Idaho Sporting Cong. Inc. v. Alexander, 222 F.3d 562, 569 (9th Cir. 2000) 21 (citations omitted). Further, “[i]n the NEPA context, irreparable injury flows from the failure to 22 evaluate the environmental impact of a major federal action.” California ex rel. Lockyer v. U.S.
 23 Dept. of Agric., 459 F. Supp. 2d 874, 913 (N.D. Cal. 2006), opinion clarified sub nom. People of 24 State of California ex rel. Lockyer v. U.S. Dept. of Agric., C05-03508 EDL, 2006 WL 2827903 25 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 3, 2006), aff’d, 575 F.3d 999 (9th Cir. 2009). Thus, irreparable injury exists when 26 the agency fails to consider the environmental concerns raised by NEPA such that “governmental 27 decisionmakers make up their minds without having before them an analysis (with prior public 28 comment) of the likely effects of their decision upon the environment.” Id. at 913.

Irrespective of the procedural injury caused by the violation of NEPA, construction of a

1 border wall in New Mexico will cause irreparable injury to wildlife in the area and New Mexico
 2 as a whole. This harm is caused not just by Defendants' violation of NEPA. This irreparable 3 injury would not occur but for Defendants' unlawful and unconstitutional diversion of DOD 4 funds toward construction of a border wall on New Mexico's southern border.

5 The proposed pedestrian fencing will permanently impede wildlife connectivity that is 6 essential to the survival of many species such as the Mexican wolf. The Mexican wolf is a rare, 7 endangered subspecies of the gray wolf. Env. App'x Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 18-22). After 8 being nearly killed off in the 1970s, recovery efforts for this important species are still 9 ongoing. Id. The Mexican wolf is known to travel hundreds of miles and cross the United States-10 Mexico border in the El Paso Project 1 area. Id. ¶¶ 23-25. This movement is essential for the 11 genetic diversity of this species. Id. Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶ 8); Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶ 17); Ex. 5 12 (Traphagen Decl. ¶ 20). The El Paso Project 1 border wall likely irreparably eliminates the 13 possibility of the recovery of the endangered Mexican wolf and precludes its delisting under the 14 Endangered Species Act. Id. Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶ 15). Other species that will suffer from a lack 15 of wildlife connectivity and be irreparably harmed by the El Paso Project 1 border wall include 16 the mountain lion, bobcat, mule deer, javelina, and at least 53 other non-volant mammal, 38
 17 reptile, and 10 amphibian species. Id. Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶ 6, 11); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶ 28).

18 In addition to wildlife connectivity issues, noise, deep holes for fence posts, vehicle traffic, 19 lighting, and other disturbances associated with border wall construction will kill, injure, or alter
 20 the behavior of many vital species such as the endangered Aplomado falcon, the iconic Gila 21 monster which is listed as endangered by the State of New Mexico, and many birds and bats. Env.
 22 App'x Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶ 9); Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶¶ 16, 20, 25); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶ 26).
 23 Harms to other wildlife will also have significant impacts on New Mexico residents, limiting 24 recreational opportunities and eliminating sources of income for local communities. Id. Ex. 1 25 (Hadley Decl. ¶ 25); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 29-30); Ex. 6 (Trejo Decl. ¶¶ 8-10, 13, 17-18); Ex.
 26 7 (Vasquez Decl. ¶¶ 8, 14). For example, a border wall would block the flight path of low-flying 27 quail, making it more vulnerable to natural predators and thus impairing residents' ability to hunt 28 the quail. Id. Ex. 6 (Trejo Decl. ¶¶ 10, 13).

Finally, the irreparable damage to species and to wildlife corridors, including on State Trust Lands, constitutes irreparable harm to the State of New Mexico. Under the New Mexico Constitution, “protection of the state’s beautiful and healthful environment is . . . of fundamental importance to the public interest, health, and safety and the general welfare.” N.M. Const. art. XX, § 21. This provision “recognizes that a public trust duty exists for the protection of New Mexico’s natural resources . . . for the benefit of the people of this state.” Sanders-Reed ex rel. Sanders-Reed v. Martinez, 350 P.3d 1221, 1225 (N.M. Ct. App. 2015). New Mexico is now committed to preserving wildlife corridors for large mammals and species of concern such as the Mexican gray wolf. Env. App’x Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶ 27). Additionally, El Paso Project 1 abuts and includes New Mexico State Trust Lands and borders the Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks National Monument and other wilderness areas, which together constitute a critical wildlife corridor that the Project will disrupt. Id. Ex. 4 (Nestlerode Decl. Ex. A); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 27-31, Exs. A and B).

B. Diversion from TFF is Likely to Irreparably Harm the Plaintiff States

Plaintiff States will suffer irreparable harm from the permanent diversion of funds from TFF because this is an unconstitutional action that deprives Plaintiff States of the same opportunity to receive TFF funds that they have enjoyed for years. “[C]onstitutional violation[s] alone, coupled with the damages incurred, can suffice to show irreparable harm.” Am. Trucking Ass’n, v. Los Angeles, 559 F.3d 1046, 1058-59 (9th Cir. 2009) (relying on Morales v. Trans World Airlines, Inc., 504 U.S. 374, 381 (1992)). The harms that this diversion causes to Plaintiff States’ public policy and sovereign interests in preserving public safety constitutes irreparable harm. See Kansas v. United States, 249 F.3d 1213, 1227-28 (10th Cir. 2001).

Defendants have used unconstitutional means to direct $601 million from TFF toward a new competing priority to which forfeitures may be devoted—i.e., a border wall that Congress has refused to fund with additional appropriations. This $601 million in Strategic Support funding for one fiscal year is greater than the amount of Strategic Support funding that has been drawn from TFF for the past nine years combined. Cayaban Decl. ¶ 11. This diversion, which is taking place against the backdrop of “severe negative impacts” to the TFF caused by Congressional 1 rescissions in prior years, as well as “substantial” reductions in the TFF’s base revenue, RJN Exs.

2 42-43, undermines the continued viability of TFF. As discussed above, the DOJ was compelled to 3 suspend its equitable sharing program when its Asset Forfeiture Fund faced similar financial 4 pressures, even without facing a diversion of this magnitude. RJN Ex. 44.

5 This diversion also jeopardizes the States’ ability to collect their pending equitable share 6 claims of millions of dollars that they are entitled to receive after dedicating time and resources to 7 participating in joint law enforcement efforts. TFF App’x. Treasury’s decision to agree to CBP’s 8 request to devote $601 million from TFF towards a border wall prioritizes that use above all other 9 potential uses of those funds. Thus, Plaintiff States are placed at an irreparable and substantial 10 financial disadvantage vis-à-vis CBP as a result of this unconstitutional action, as CBP will 11 receive funds that would have otherwise gone to the states. Cf. Int’l Franchise Ass’n, v. City of 12 Seattle, 803 F.3d 389, 411 (9th Cir. 2015) (“A rule putting plaintiffs at a competitive 13 disadvantage constitutes irreparable harm.”); City of Los Angeles v. Sessions, 293 F. Supp. 3d 14 1087, 1100 (C.D. Cal. 2018) (unconstitutional grant conditions imposed on future fiscal years 15 constitutes irreparable harm). As a result, state and local law enforcement agencies face the 16 likelihood that they will have to divert their limited resources to fund law enforcement priorities 17 that TFF would have funded but for the unconstitutional diversion of funds. TFF App’x. The 18 deleterious impacts on the States’ public safety caused by their inability to fully fund their law 19 enforcement priorities is irreparable. See Maryland v. King, 567 U.S. 1301, 1302-03 (2012) 20 (Roberts, C.J., in chambers) (harm to state’s “law enforcement and public safety interests . . .
21 constitutes irreparable harm”).

22 While the harm to States from their inability to collect equitable shares from TFF and fund 23 law enforcement operations is alone irreparable, there is an additional risk that the harm caused to 24 Plaintiff States will be irreversible. Treasury notified Congress that as of March 2, 2019, up to 25 $242 million from TFF has been made “available for obligation” for DHS border wall 26 construction activities. RJN Ex. 30. The president has stated that “[m]any additional contracts are 27 close to being signed,” RJN Ex. 1, and on April 2, 2019, CBP acknowledged that it “intends to 28 start obligating these funds in the near future,” and to complete its obligation before the end of 1 FY 2019, or at the very latest, the end of the 2019 calendar year. RJN Ex. 2, ¶ 11. There is, thus, a 2 significant risk that this obligation could take place at any time. The imminent obligation of those 3 funds presents the possibility that, absent a preliminary injunction, the Court may be unable to 4 award complete relief should Plaintiffs ultimately prevail in this litigation. See City of Houston v.

 5 HUD, 24 F.3d 1421, 1426 (D.C. Cir. 1994) (explaining that the plaintiff’s case was moot because 6 the agency had obligated the relevant appropriations to other entities); see also Ariz. Dream Act
 7 Coal. v. Brewer, 757 F.3d 1053, 1068 (9th Cir. 2014) (“Irreparable harm is traditionally defined 8 as harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy, such as an award for damages.”).

9 IV. THE BALANCE OF HARDSHIPS FAVORS GRANTING A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

10 A preliminary injunction is appropriate when the plaintiff “establish[es] . . . that the balance 11 of equities tips in [their] favor, and that an injunction is in the public interest.” Winter, 555 U.S. at 12 20. When the federal government is a party, these factors merge. See Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S.
 13 418, 435 (2009). Here, they weigh decidedly in favor of granting the requested relief.

14 In the first place, “[t]he public has an interest in assuring that public funds are appropriated 15 and distributed pursuant to Congressional directives.” Population Inst. v. McPherson, 797 F.2d 16 1062, 1082 (D.C. Cir. 1986). Moreover, the public interest is served by protecting environmental 17 resources from harm and ensuring that federal agencies consider and evaluate potential 18 environmental impacts under NEPA before undertaking major infrastructure projects like border 19 wall construction. Fork Band Council of W. Shoshone of Nev. v. U.S. Dep’t of Int., 588 F.3d 718, 20 728 (9th Cir. 2009).

21 New Mexico will be significantly and irreparably harmed by the El Paso Project 1’s 22 impacts to wildlife and wildlife corridors including on State Trust Lands. The loss of wildlife 23 connectivity will impact endangered animals such as the Mexican wolf and jaguar. Env. App’x 24 Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶ 7); Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶ 15); Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶¶ 23-30 and Exs. A 25 and B). Direct effects include “injury, death, harm, and harassment due to construction of the 26 border wall” and associated activities such as “vegetation clearing; road construction; grading and 27 construction of equipment storage and parking areas; off road movement of vehicles and 28 equipment involved in construction; and poisoning from chemical application (herbicides and pesticides).” Id. Ex. 3 (Nagano Decl. ¶ 13). Indirect effects include harassment as a result of lighting associated with the wall’s construction and the growth of “invasive weeds introduced by construction and routine DHS and CBP operation” Id.; Ex. 5 (Traphagen Decl. ¶ 26). Injury, death, harm, and harassment of species are irreparable and significant impacts, especially given the endangered status of many of the species living in the vicinity of the El Paso Project 1. Id. Ex. 2 (Lasky Decl. ¶¶ 6-7, 11, 15).

The balance of hardships tips in favor for the rest of the Plaintiff States as well due to the harm caused to the States’ public safety if they lose their equitable share payments as a result of Defendants’ diversion of funds from TFF. TFF App’x. Plaintiff States have relied on their equitable share payments for decades, and Defendants’ drastic cut of $601 million from TFF toward one project is unprecedented. An injunction that protects the States’ stake in their equitable share payments preserves the status quo and does not prevent the federal government from continuing to enforce federal law. M.R. v. Dreyfus, 663 F.3d 1100, 1120 (9th Cir. 2011) (“[W]e conclude that the public interest is served by preserving the status quo by means of a preliminary injunction.”).

Defendants, meanwhile, experience no countervailing harm if they are enjoined from illegally diverting funding under §§ 284, 8005 and 9705. Rodriguez v. Robbins, 715 F.3d 1127, 1145 (9th Cir. 2013) (“[T]he government[] . . . cannot suffer harm from an injunction that merely ends an unlawful practice”). The federal government “is in no way harmed by issuance of a preliminary injunction which prevents the [government] from enforcing restrictions likely to be found unconstitutional. If anything, the system is improved by such an injunction.” Giovani Carandola Ltd v. Bason, 303 F.3d 507, 521 (4th Cir. 2002) (quotation marks omitted). Further, although the President has called for a wall throughout his presidency, RJN Exs. 3-13, he waited for over two years before taking this Executive Action, undercutting any need to proceed with Defendants’ unconstitutional diversion of funding for the pendency of this litigation. President Trump himself acknowledged that he “didn’t need to” take extraordinary steps to divert funding for border wall construction, and that Congress has provided more than enough funding for homeland security without the wall. RJN Ex. 50. Therefore, the balance of hardships tips sharply in Plaintiff States' favor, and supports granting the relief requested in this motion.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff States request that the Court grant their motion.
